Very seldom are we given a chance to see ourselves as others us but a recent report on the Campbell Fire District by the Board of Fire Underwriters gives a detached look at Campbell which is rather interesting. For example:

"Community in General: Not incorporated but organized as a county fire district in 1913; located five miles southwest of San Jose; elevation about 100 feet above sea level. Population of the community, 4500, but the fire district includes only a population of 3500; built-up area, 244 acres; principal industry, fruit canning. Topography, level; streets, 30 percent paved—the rest in good condition. Transportation facilities, good, railroad and paved highway; electricity, oil and gas used for power and fuel. Climate, winters cool with rain and occasional light frost; summers warm and dry with moderate humidity; located in zone of severe earthquakes. Fire record indicates a high loss per fire but low loss per capita.

As for the fire department—On volunteer basis since organization in 1913; under the supervision of three fire commissioners. The volunteer chief has been in this department since 1927 and has had good local experience. Membership totals 20, all volunteer, including one man in the station at night. Organized as a single company, the department is equipped with two pieces of apparatus in very good condition, a 500 g.p.m. triple combination pumper and a hose truck with small pump and water tank. Hose considerably inadequate, totals 1250 ft.; 2000 ft. required. Minor equipment mainly complete but lacks some important items such as salvage equipment. Fire station is of wood frame construction with fair facilities. Rules and regulations considerably deficient; drills regularly held but moderately incomplete. Discipline and fire methods considered average for volunteer department. Response includes both trucks to all fires. Inspection, none; records mainly good.

Fire Alarm. No fire alarm telegraph system. Siren with switch at the fire station provides public alarm. Telephone headquarters located in wood frame stucco building moderately exposed, no operation on duty. Operation: Alarms telephoned to water company in the day, the fire department at night and one of the commissioners during meals. Public siren is blown, and after sufficient men have arrived at the fire station response with both trucks is made.

Building Department: No organization, laws, permits or inspections. Construction in the principal mercantile district is 60 percent wood frame, the rest wood joisted masonry. Of the built-up area 39 percent is in excessive frame areas, 22 percent in excessive masonry areas. Streets are only of moderate width, buildings are one and two stories high.

Explosives, Inflammables and Electricity: No organization, laws, inspections or permits. Local conditions considered generally fair to poor.

It is the ten recommendations that we should perhaps note most carefully. The three marked with an asterisk are the ones recommended for immediate action.

Water Supply: It is recommended (1) that additional pumps be installed, (2) that more mains be laid.

3. That sufficient hydrants be installed to provide an average of one hydrant for each 120,000 sq. ft. of built-up area.

4. That hydrants with two outlets, 6-inch barrel, and 6-inch gated connection to street main be used in all cases.

5. That sleeping quarters for at least four men be provided in the fire station to be occupied every night by regularly assigned volunteer members or substitutes provided.

*6. That the firemen be placed on call basis and paid for fire service.

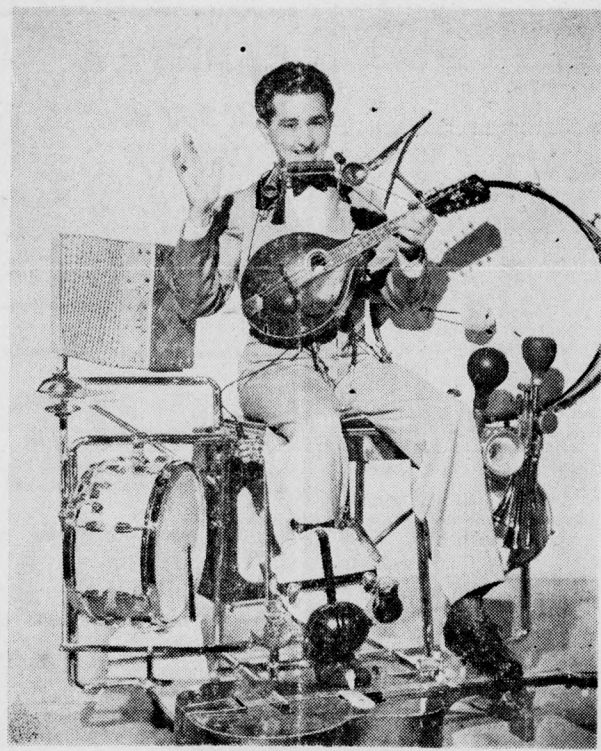

7. That the membership of the department be increased such as to provide an average response to fires of at least 18 men.

*8. That additional 2 1/2-in. hose be purchased to bring the total up to 2000 feet.

9. That salvage equipment be provided, this to include salvage covers, squeegees, brooms, mops,

ONE-MAN BAND

Odd Fellows Plan Party

The Odd Fellows of Campbell will entertain their families and friends and members of the Rebekah lodge and their families Saturday night, May 24, at the Campbell hall.

Several feature numbers will entertain the group. Among them will be Manuel Rodriguez and his "One-Man Band." Rodriguez, proprietor of the "One Stop" drive-in restaurant on Winchester Road, has for many years been a splendid attraction wherever he has exhibited his talents as a one-man band. Dancing and cards will complete the evening's entertainment, followed by refreshments.

Last week at Grand Lodge in San Francisco, Walter Silberbauer was installed as district deputy grand master for this district. The lodges under his supervision include the two San Jose lodges and those at Los Gatos and Campbell. During July he will be busy installing new officers in the several lodges.

This Thursday he will be guest of honor at a reception at the San Jose IOOF hall, where he will be greeted by Odd Fellows of the district.

Maderis Ball Club Community Dance Wins Third Game Plans Being Made

The Maderis Food Center baseball club under the management of John Walters, won its third victory in a row by defeating the strong Santa Clara Wutzit club 4 to 3.

Ernie Jordan, making his first start on the mound, made an impressive showing and at bat came through with a long home run with one man on.

The fielding of PeeWee Foxx was sensational as he brought down several line drives that were labeled for hits.

Maderis will endeavor to bring a San Francisco team here Sunday for a game at 2 p.m.

*10. That arrangements be made for someone to be on duty at the fire station at all times, day and night, to receive telephone alarms. We suggest that paid firemen perform this service during the day and thus provide additional manpower for the department.

It's a little hard to worry ourselves too much because we haven't had a structural fire here in 11 months, an amazing record, but that doesn't mean that there could not be 11 in the next month!

On Saturday, June 14, Campbell residents will have an opportunity to demonstrate their civic mindedness by attending a community dance in the High School gym. Proceeds of the dance are to be used for the start of a recreational program for both children and adults and it is hoped by the coordinating council that enough money will be raised by the dance to provide some playground equipment for use this summer.

In previous years any money raised for recreational work was done by solicitation and donations. The coordinating council, composed of representatives from Campbell organizations and clubs, feels that this method will not only be more successful but will give the community a chance to have a good time while accomplishing a purpose.

On the committee arranging the dance are Arthur Tindall, Mrs. Ray Gilpatrick, Mrs. Gene Hodges, Robert Raker, Mrs. Harold Drummond and Mrs. Louise Tordt.

Tickets for the dance will be on sale next week.

New Appliance Store To Open

Shortly after Benson and Jeffers move to their new store adjacent to the nearly completed postoffice, T. J. Burnett of San Jose will open an electrical appliance store in their present quarters.

The store will be known as Burnett's Appliances and will specialize in Hot Point appliances, Laundries, all washers and Admiral refrigerators and radios.

Burnett plans on remodeling and redecorating the store before opening. For many years he has been connected with the Pacific Gas and Electric company in the service department.

Since Campbell was in his territory he knows it well and hopes to make his home here soon.

Roosevelt Tree Getting Water

As the result of a suggestion made at the April Chamber of Commerce meeting, the Campbell Water Co. has tapped a main near the historic Roosevelt tree on the corner of Campbell and Winchester and laid a pipe to the tree, enabling it to have water.

The giant tree was dying from lack of water since all its smaller roots were covered by concrete and only the very deep roots were getting any water.

Homer Hyde, Water Co. secretary, reports that arrangements must be made for more adequate irrigation however, and this is being worked out.

Poppy Day Here Tomorrow

Every person in Campbell will be asked to wear a memorial poppy tomorrow and to make a contribution for the welfare of the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead.

Preparations for Poppy Day were being completed today by a large committee of American Legion Auxiliary women, headed by Mrs. Clara Fagalde, Poppy chairman. Volunteer workers from the auxiliary and cooperating groups will be on the streets at an early hour tomorrow distributing the poppies and receiving contributions.

"Although the second World War is slipping rapidly into the past, we believe that the memory of the young men who gave their lives in that conflict is still fresh in the minds and hearts of all of us," said Mrs. Fagalde. "The dead of the first World War have been gone for 29 years, yet we remember their service and sacrifice. The poppies which we will put on tomorrow will show that we have not forgotten and are grateful for their defense of our country."

The poppies to be distributed here have been made by disabled veterans at Palo Alto. Auxiliary workers will all be unpaid volunteers, permitting the full amount of all contributions to go into the auxiliary's rehabilitation and child welfare work.

Poppy Day here will be part of a nation-wide observance in which an estimated 125,000 auxiliary women will distribute approximately 25,000,000 poppies.

Horace Person Dies In Portland

The many Campbell friends of Horace Person will be sorry to learn of his death in Portland, Oregon, last Sunday. Mr. Person had been in ill health since last December.

For many years the Persons made their home in Campbell and Mrs. Person has made several visits here since leaving. Mr. Person was associated with the U. S. Army Engineers in Portland.

LEAVE FOR VERMONT SOON

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Robinson and their three children will leave soon to make their home in Springfield, Vermont, where they resided before coming to California.

PIONEER IS TAKEN

One of Campbell's oldest residents was claimed by death last Sunday when Mrs. Mary Leona Neff died at her home on Central Avenue. Eighty-four years of age at the time of her death, Mrs. Neff had lived in Campbell for more than 50 years. She was a member of Adah Reb-kah lodge.

Her final rites were conducted at the Rutherford Funeral Home on Tuesday, with the Rev. Floyd Hamilton officiating. Interment was in the Los Gatos cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Neff is her daughter, Miss Minnie Neff, also of Campbell.

Wedding Is Set For Sunday

On Sunday, May 25, Harvey R. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood, will take as his bride Miss Erika Kleina of Bremen, Germany. The young couple have been engaged for more than a year while Wood was employed as a civilian in the Army Exchange Service in Bremen.

Scene of the wedding will be the Campbell Congregational church with the Rev. Robert Carlson officiating. An honored guest at the rites will be the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Eustus of Centralia, Wash.

Before being employed in Germany as a civilian, Wood served for more than two years as a Corporal in the Seventh Army.

The young couple plan to make their home in the Santa Clara Valley and for the present will be at home in Campbell.

RETURN TO "COOL" VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Shadle report that they are glad to be back in the Santa Clara Valley after some extremely hot weather encountered in their recent trip to Sacramento, Modesto and Turlock where they visited friends and relatives.

HAPPY ENDING

Blitzie, the lost dachshund, is safe at home! Last week's press told of Blitzie's absence from the home of her 3-year-old mistress, Karen Coleen Knopf, who was ill at the time. Blitzie had not been stolen nor had she purposely wandered from home. Instead, she had been struck by a car and injured, but not seriously. She and her young mistress are now recuperating happily together.

Campbell Players On All-Star Team

Bob Carl, pitcher, and Wayne Buck, outfielder-first baseman, have been chosen to play for the South team in the second annual North-South Prep All-Star double-header which will be held at the Municipal Stadium in San Jose on Thursday night, May 29.

Carl turned in some good exhibitions for the Bucs despite the fact that he was pitching for a losing team. Buck has been one of the hardest hitters of the Santa Clara Valley Athletic League for the past three years.

Four players from the North-South games will win the right to represent the Peninsula in the annual East-West All-Star game in San Francisco on Monday night, June 2. The "outstanding player" in the North-South encounters will receive a trip to Chicago to see several major league games and the Chicago Bears vs. College All-Stars football classic at Soldier's Field.

Carl and Buck are currently working out with the South team in San Jose.

There will be a special admission rate of 50 cents for students.

Joint Meeting In Burbank

Members of the Campbell Kiwanis club met Tuesday at Lou's Village in Burbank with members of the newly formed Burbank Rotary club. Laurance Hill served as chairman of the day and presented a musical program by Campbell Union High school students.

Being welcomed into the club are two new members, Ray Fish and Howard Payne.

CONSTRUCTION ON 200 HOUSES STARTS
Construction will start next week on 200 houses in a new subdivision on Union avenue. Owner and builder is the Pioneer Building and Loan Co. of San Jose.

Houses will be medium priced ones, available to either veterans or non-veterans, and will sell at approximately $8000 or $9000.

53 Attend Chamber Luncheon

Fifty-three members and guests of the Chamber of Commerce sat down at luncheon yesterday in the Library Hall making the largest number ever to attend a Chamber meeting. Members of the American Legion Auxiliary served the luncheon and President Ira Grim presided.

Reports were heard from various committees including the one appointed to attempt to secure a bank for Campbell. Carl Field, chairman of this committee, reported that the members have been actively working and that, although their information must remain confidential at the present time, prospects for a bank were definitely bright.

Every business man present indicated his intention of changing to a local bank once it was established.

Much interest was shown in Lloyd Nelson's report on lighting the high school field, which he estimated would cost $2500. This, he felt, would pay for itself in two or three years as such projects have in other communities.

Main speaker of the day was L. T. Cronkite, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. engineer, who discussed Campbell's woefully inadequate lighting system. He shocked listeners by pointing out that each present light has about a 69 watt power, considerably less than is used in the ordinary home for a reading light.

Taxpayers in the Campbell lighting district pay 9.4 cents on the assessed valuation per $100 which is much lower than the national average.

Cronkite outlined a plan whereby the town could have improved and adequate lighting at about 21 cents per $100, which is still lower than most communities of this size. He advocated enlarging the district to include residential areas badly in need of lighting and told the group they must act at once if they wish to have improved lighting next year.

According to Miss Rachel Spradling, Chamber treasurer, there are now 96 members in the Chamber.

O'Connor Hospital Announces Plans For Campaign

O'Connor Hospital officials, headed by Sister Bernice, Sister Superior of O'Connor, this week announced support by O'Connor of the current drive for funds by the Community Service hospital.

O'Connor Hospitals drive for funds will not begin until after June 15, at which time it has been announced the Community Service hospital drive will conclude. Sister Bernice announced this week, adding that O'Connor urges that people of this valley support the Community Service hospital campaign.

Purpose of the O'Connor drive will be to provide a complete new hospital — the first unit of which will have 100 beds, Sister Bernice said.

Heading the campaign for O'Connor as general chairman will be Patrick H. Peabody, publisher of the Sunnyvale Standard, Los Altos News, Campbell Press and Saratoga Observer.

Complete details of the O'Connor drive will be announced later.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS

The Carl Fields and the Guy Farleys are busy planning a Memorial week-end trip to Yosemite.

Folk Dancing Party Friday

Folk dancing is the order of business at the high school gym this Friday at 8 p.m. The group of 300 to 400 dancers will trek out from San Jose to join the Gay Nighters in their monthly party.

A group of some 30 authentic dancers of various nationalities has been selected, and spectators are promised a gay sight as the costumed dancers perform intricate steps. The Scandinavian countries, Russia, Denmark, Sicily, Switzerland, Italy, Mexico and Scotland are some of the countries represented. In addition, American country dances will be in evidence.

Pres. Carl Spencer of the Gay Nighters has had a group of local dance devotees in charge of arrangements.

Camp Fire Girls, supervised by their leader, Mrs. Joe Henley, will be in charge of refreshments, with the purpose in mind of raising summer camp funds.

Former Resident Writes News

A letter received by Edna Smith from Walter Smily, a former Campbell resident who operated a radio repair shop in the IOOF building here, tells of the purchase of a home in Seattle where he is employed by the government in radio and radar work.

He writes: "My house is on a hillside overlooking Puget Sound and the view is marvelous. I can sit on the front porch and look across the sound and see all the snow-capped mountains of the Olympic peninsula, including Mt. Olympia. At night I can lie in bed and see the lights of Vashon Island and the glow in the sky from Bremerton."

He is enthusiastic also about his large vegetable and fruit garden and gives his new address for Campbell correspondents which is: 10010 47th Ave. S.W., Seattle 66, Wash.

By reading the Campbell Press Smily keeps abreast of Campbell news and writes with amazement of the many changes here.

Grammar School Track Finals Here

The second annual track meet for elementary schools in this part of the county will be held Saturday at the high school at 1:30 p.m. Qualifying meets have been held at Mountain View, Alum Rock, and Los Gatos. The boys who proved best in these trials will vie on Saturday for top honors.

Eleven schools will compete on the local oval and a hot team race is looked for between Willow Glen and Alum Rock from the east, Mt. View and Sunnyside from the north and Campbell and Burbank from the south. Competition will be held in the 70, 90, 110 and unlimited exponent divisions.

Last Saturday Campbell lost southern district schools in the qualifying meet at Los Gatos scoring 18 points beating Burbank, Los Gatos and Cambrian.
This Saturday's affair will be arranged and handled by Herudson, high school mentor, assisted by several members of his track and field squad.

Where To Go What To See What To Do

Having trouble with the itch these days? The itch to travel, that is! Why suffer any longer with the yen to get away from it all when a typical California week-end trip is waiting to dispel that feeling? You'll come back on Monday morning to attack that job with renewed vigor! The Travel and Recreation department of the California State Chamber of Commerce reports the usual goodly number of fiestas, rodeos and other celebrations scheduled for this week-end.

San Luis Obispo: Fiesta de las Flores, May 23-25; 19th annual "feast of the flowers," with all activity centering around grounds of the historic Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa and its gardens.

Bakersfield: Bakersfield Jubilee, 74th anniversary celebration will wind up on May 24-25 with California Highway Patrol Rodeo. Parade at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Redlands: Assistance League Charity Horse show at La Carrera field, May 25.

Bank On Depression

WASHINGTON. — One of the most significant things General Marshall reported to President Truman following his return from Moscow was his impression that the Russians are stalling for time, banking on a depression in the United States.

Stalin didn't tell this to Marshall, although he did emphasize that the Russians were quite willing to have the peace talks continue for some time. However, the secretary of state is convinced that an American economic depression is the chief thing the Russians are waiting for.

An American depression would mean three things: (1) Converts for the Communist system in the United States; (2) weakening the United States in the eyes of Europe, and (3) strengthening the Communist system — now none too strong—in Russia.

All this is one reason why Truman has been getting many reports from his council of economic advisers and has made repeated appeals for price reductions.

Marshall has impressed listeners with one important thing—his own increased assurance. Before going to Moscow he seemed unsure of himself in his new role of diplomat. But those who listened to him at the White House and over the radio felt that the Moscow conference had given the military-manned peacemaker a new self confidence.

Marshall felt he had been psychologically wise in waiting until nearly the end of the conference before seeking an audience with Generalissimo Stalin. Other foreign ministers had asked for conference, but Marshall said he deliberately held back.

"It kept the Russians guessing," he explained.

Marshall said he himself had done most of the talking during his Stalin interview. He had outlined the American position not to abandon our interest in Europe and explained that American objectives were "a matter of determined principle" upon which we are not prepared to yield. Russian disregard for earlier commitments, he said, was seriously straining relations between the two countries.

Stalin, Marshall reported, listened quietly and gravely, at no point resentful of the American's blunt language. Stalin said little, beyond elaborating on the belief that "a possible area of agreement" can be reached after both sides had exhausted their arguments.

Aelman and "Harrito"

The exchange of visits between President Truman and Mexico's President Miguel Aleman is the greatest shot in the arm to the good-neighbor policy since Sumner Welles left the state department.

Pres. Aleman is convinced that Mexico must solve its economic headaches or be swept up in the rising tide of extremism now sweeping much of the world. To keep Mexican employment high, the Mexicans want loans from the United States, but on a partnership basis, not with Wall Street motives behind them. These points were quietly discussed during closed-door talks between Truman and Aleman in Mexico City. That's why Truman arranged for Aleman to talk to top bankers and industrialists as well as to key government economic experts while he was a guest of the United States. Truman wants to make sure the plan gets off to a solid start.

Shrinking Violets

Freshman Sen. Herbert O'Connor of Maryland is still hanging onto his seat by an eyelash, pending his election recount. But meanwhile O'Connor has seen to it that posterity won't lose out on the high spots of his career—even if he later has to leave the senate.

O'Connor has the longest biography (sometimes called "bragography") of any senator or representative in the Congressional Directory. It runs 53 lines—all written by the senator himself. This tops by five lines GOP Cong. James Van Zandt of Pennsylvania, who also thinks a lot of himself.

Freshman O'Connor is not as realistic as GOP Sen. Bill Langer of North Dakota, who lists among his various attainments that he once went to jail. Langer's biographical sketch in the directory states that he is the "only person ever to be arrested in an English-speaking country for filing an affidavit of prejudice against a judge."

Shortest senate biography in the directory is that of California's Sheridan Downey—less than five lines. Seven house members go too far and appear afraid to tell their constituents anything about themselves. Those who confine their biographical sketches to one line, stating their name, party and home town, are: Republicans Fred Crawford of Michigan, George Mackinnon of Minnesota and Dewey Short of Missouri, and Democrats Stephen Pace of Georgia, Edward Hart of New Jersey, Joseph Pfeiffer of New York and Andrew Somers of New York.

Box Office Reporter

On Friday and Saturday, "The Return of Monte Cristo" is scheduled for showing at the Campbell theater. Louis Hayward and Barbara Britton star in this adventure, which is an Edward Small production. A good story with tense and exciting situations is presented by a competent cast under the direction of Henry Levin. A tale, based on the Alexander Dumas character, Edmond Dantes, Count of Monte Cristo, is presented in a manner which should hold the audience's attention. This is the type of film to satisfy filmgoers seeking adventurous entertainment.

Edmond Dantes, played by Louis Hayward, learns he is the rightful heir to the Monte Cristo fortune. When he attempts to claim his inheritance he is confronted by a group of men who have forged documents to make Barbara Britton an heiress. The young lady is ignorant of the scheme. Hayward is sent to Devil's Island but escapes and returns to revenge the wrongs he suffered. He is successful in making the group of men confess their evil intent and wins the love of the young lady.

George Macready, Una O'Connor, Henry Stephenson and Steven Geray give good performances in supporting roles. George Bruce and Alfred Nelman wrote the screenplay, which was based on the original story by Curt Siodmak and Arnold Phillips. Grant Whytock produced. The musical score by Lucien Morawek, under the direction of Lud Gluskin, is good and is an important factor in setting the mood of the film.

Help Your Doctor Help You

An accurate case history is an invaluable aid in arriving at a correct diagnosis.

In order to get the information needed to make an accurate diagnosis, your doctor must ask you many searching questions. If you answer his questions frankly and accurately he has a valuable group of facts with which to work. Withholding information only serves to obscure the very result you seek.

I am not a skilled diagnostician but I am skilled in the art of compounding and dispensing your prescriptions as your doctor orders...

Over the years I have compounded prescriptions from doctors in most every state in the union. I will appreciate the privilege of filling your prescription regardless of whom your family doctor may be.

Campbell Court Notes

By Judge Blaine

This youngish married man said, "Judge, I didn't come because I want anybody arrested or sued. What bothers me is a domestic problem, and I thought maybe you might be a good person to talk it over with."

"All right, suppose you tell me what it is."

"Well, I've got one of the best young wives in the country; but along with her I've got a great disappointment. You can't guess what it is!"

"Then I know it isn't a meddling mother-in-law."

"No, it's rather unusual. It's an objection my wife has to unexpected male company. Now and then I like to bring home an unannounced man friend for a meal and an informal talk over the smokes. But after I do, my wife gives me a piece of her mind. For company at meals she likes to be dressed up and to have some special food."

"Are you sure that's unusual? Seems to me I've heard about it from other youngish husbands."

"Really? Well, it's said that misery loves company. But why must youngish husbands have this misery? Don't you think youngish wives should be more considerate?"

"Well, not long ago I had a call from a youngish wife who had something on her chest, too. She said her husband is one of the best in the country, but that along with him she got one great disappointment — not a mother-in-law. You can't guess what it is."

"There are plenty of things to guess at!"

"Yes, and here's the thing. When this youngish husband changes in a hurry from his work clothes to his best he scatters shoes, socks, pants, shirt, underwear, clothes brush, comb, hair brush, or what has he, over every room in the house and over any piece of furniture, not even excepting the dining table. Only the evening before she had found one of his socks within an inch of the butter dish."

"You don't say!"

"But she did. I'm merely reporting."

"Well, well!"

"Well?"

HISTORY OF CAMPBELL

3.—PRIMITIVE MAN

A brief review of the early history of man will enable one better to understand the Indians of the Santa Clara Valley. Many branches of mammals, both beast and human, have perished through the operation of the inexorable law of natural selection. Saber-tooth tigers, hairy mammoths, Neanderthal man and many Indian tribes serve as examples.

Small mammals first appear in the Mesozoic Age while the world was still dominated by the great reptiles. Typical of such creatures is a primitive marsupial, a skull of which was discovered in Kansas in 1923. The skull of another mammal about the size of a cat was recently unearthed in Louisiana. It was brought up in drilling operations from a depth of 2500 feet and is believed to be of Cretaceous age.

Although so much smaller and weaker than the dinosaurs the mammals developed hair or fur that apparently saved them from the glacial cold which destroyed their great naked enemies. In the Cenozoic Age mammals rapidly increased in variety, number and size until they dominated the earth. Different species took on different traits, but especially characteristic were the developments of family groups and of larger brains.

Monkey bones appear among Eocene and Miocene fossils in both North America and Europe. Primitive apes appear in the middle Miocene in Europe and were followed by numerous higher forms in the Pliocene, perhaps a million years ago.

British scholars first became interested in ancient man through the stone arrow heads and axes which were found scattered over England. Those of finer workmanship and finish were found near the surface, and those of cruder design were deeply buried in undisturbed gravels. Wonder grew as to the type of man that had made the first crude implements, which, according to geological evidence, lay in Pleistocene gravels.

Charles Darwin published his "Origin of the Species" in 1859, but the theory of the descent of man from "arboreal" ancestors was not universally accepted during his century, and there arose a great cry for the "missing link" between ape and man. The new century supplied many such missing links in the form of fossil remains.

Perhaps the oldest fossils of man-like creatures were found in the travertine caves of Africa. The skulls have such a mixture of human and simian characteristics—human teeth in ape-like jaws—that the scientists decline to say whether the skulls are those of ape or man. Due to the uncertainty of geologic chronology in Africa, the exact age of these fossils is unknown. The University of California is sending an expedition this summer (1947) to excavate further African fossils and to try to determine their age.

A skull from the Far East as large as that of a gorilla has lately been found. It represents another of the ancient human-like species. Like the African specimens there are human teeth in ape-like jaws. The creature is estimated to have weighed 700 pounds.

The most famous of the "missing links" is probably Pithecanthropus Erectus, the Java Man, discovered by a Dutch surgeon in 1836. It was thought of have been of Pliocene age and so to have antedated the Pleistocene glaciation. Its cranial capacity is about half way between that of the chimpanzee and man. The thigh bone shows that he stood erect.

The Peking Man, found in China in 1929, is very clearly of Pleistocene age, for it was found in a cave which contained fossil animals characteristic of that period. The skull bears enough similarity to that of the Java Man to cast some doubt upon the latter's estimated age. The Piltdown Man, discovered in a gravel pit in England, has somewhat similar features.

The jaw bone of the Heidelberg Man was found 80 feet deep in a sand pit in 1907. It has no chin and is more massive than the jaw of modern man. It is so narrow at the back that anatomists doubt whether it would permit the tongue movements necessary for speech. Yet the teeth are human. The bones of elephants, rhinos, bison and moose found in the same gravels indicate a rather early Pleistocene age.

A heavy skull found deep in a cave at Neanderthal in 1856 was declared by an eminent specialist of the day to be that of an idiot. But when others of the same type were found in France, Belgium, and other parts of Europe it became certain that the continent had once been populated by a race of such people. The Neanderthal Man had queer thumbs, lacking in flexibility, and little chin. He was stooped and could not hold his head erect; he was very thick set. He lived in an age of extinct animals and during the most severe of the glacial periods, perhaps 25,000 years ago. He took refuge from the cold in caves and knew how to build fires for warmth. The back part of his brain was the largest, and the left half larger than the right; he was therefore, right-handed.

Living in the same manner and at apparently the same time was an altogether different type of man—the Cro-Magnon. The bones of this race were first discovered in 1868, but later they also were found well scattered over Europe. In one cave were found the skeletons of a child, three men and a woman, the latter with the skull crushed by a heavy blow. The Cro-Magnon man had a skull large enough to accommodate a modern brain and had obviously many times the mental ability of his Neanderthal contemporary.

In caves of the same period have also been found the skeletons of still a third human type, the Negroid. Just what happened when these different races of men were crowded by the glaciers into southern Europe it is impossible to say. To judge by results, however, the Neanderthals, in spite of their long possession of the land, and their superior brute strength were no match for the cunning newcomers. In the ensuing war for possession of the cave shelters he was apparently completely exterminated. The Negroids seem to have been driven into Africa, and the Cro-Magnon left in undisputed possession to become the ancestors of modern Europeans.

The fossil evidence clearly shows that man has descended through a line of ancestors less and less human as the record recedes. Fossils more remote than Pleistocene all show teeth, bones, or other characteristics as much like those of apes as men. Very ancient man-like creatures have been found both in the travertine caves of Africa and in the Far East. Which area is the real cradle of the human race has not yet been fully determined.

It has been said that to know the complete history of a single grain of sand would be to know the entire earth. Perhaps to know the full history of one village or town would be to understand the earth and all mankind.

Note: To bring this history up to date for only a strictly limited number of copies will be printed before the type is melted.

TO A DESERTED HOUSE

The windows are broken and shattered,
The door sags low in its frame,
Great holes in the roof tree, above me,
Are open to sunshine and rain.

As I stand and muse in the silence
Comes the echo of days gone by,
Ghosts come crowding around me,
With echo of laughter and sigh.

I seem to hear children's laughter,
The bat that flits through the wall
Go floating away in the distance
And peopled again is the hall.

The rat scampering over the mantel
And a mother's low, lullaby tune,
With whispers of lovers' devotion
On the steps 'neath a silvery moon.

They are gone, alas forever,
From under the old roof-tree.
Some may be gone to their Maker,
Some far over the sea.

I stand in the silence and wonder,
Wherever they may roam,
If weary hearts are aching,
For a sight of the dear old home.

Moreland Notes

By RUTH EYERS

May 19, 1947

Last Friday votes were cast for the local school trustee in the Moreland district. After the final returns were counted, it was found that Mrs. LeRoy Anderson, incumbent, was the unanimous choice.

Much of the credit for the new school building now being constructed is due to Mrs. Anderson's efforts.

If present plans work out, Moreland will be one of the schools represented at the County Fair next fall.

Mrs. Hays, county supervisor, states that work done at Moreland this year is some of the best in the county.

The double ring rites were performed at the Los Gatos Presbyterian church with the Rev. Hammock of that church and the Rev. Clarence Sands of the First Baptist church of San Jose officiating.

For the occasion the church was decorated with fan shaped bouquets of spring flowers in rainbow colors. Mother's Day was the theme of the evening at Campbell Chapter, 553 O.E.S. on Friday the 16th.

Matron Thelma Akers read an original poem to the chapter's first mother, Lillian Agostinho, after which she was presented a bouquet and escorted to the East.

Following the business session there were some musical numbers followed by a drama presented by the high school Dramatic club under the direction of Dean Chamberlin, instructor.

The evening was ended with a supper. Ellen Arnold had charge of the program and had a very able corps of assistants, who were responsible for the beautiful decorations and refreshments.

INTERESTING WEEK-END IS PLANNED

On the same week-end the Jack Murdock cabin at Boulder creek will be occupied by Bud Whitmore, Lauren Warning and Bill Ross.

WATCH YOURSELF

This is the slogan used by the International Association of Chiefs of Police in their 1946 Traffic Safety Check, beginning May 15, when police officers in the United States and Canada will check the brakes, lights, tires, windshield wipers and horns of motor vehicles. Last year 28,500 lives were lost, and a million persons were injured, in automobile accidents. This frightful toll can be stopped, the police assert, when all motorists drive safely and carefully in cars that are safe.

Annual Rodeo In Readiness

This week is rodeo week at Morgan Hill, climaxed on Sunday afternoon, May 25, by the famous Madrone Rodeo, annually one of the west's "biggest little shows." Madrone by only the underpass on U.S. Highway 101, has already stepped into its western garb for the gala occasion.

Not content with trying to outdo each other by wearing cowboy-styled clothes, the male population is busily engrossed in a Whiskerino contest, the winner of which will be determined at the pre-rodeo dance at Morgan Hill's Friendly Inn Saturday evening, May 24.

Practically all of the men folk raising beards already have a two to three weeks' growth on their faces and are still going strong. "They'd better, too," avers Whiskerino Chairman Pat Brady, "for it's the horse trough for any Morgan Hillers we find minus their whiskers."

Last year's Madrone Rodeo was witnessed by close to 3000 people, and plans and facilities at Madrone are being geared to take care of an even larger number of spectators this year.

California gold production increased 135 percent in 1946.

Local Girl In San Jose Play

Miss Dorothy Williams of Campbell has an important role in "Over Twenty-One," Ruth Gordon's hilarious comedy which closes the 1946-47 season for the speech and drama department of San Jose State College. It will play in the college Little Theater from June 5 through June 9.

The cast selected by Director John Kerr stars Eida Beth Payne, in the smart role Ruth Gordon created for herself, and Donald Holladay as the husband who desperately tries to overcome the handicap of being over twenty-one.

Both Miss Payne and Mr. Holladay have seen action on the State College Little Theater boards this year, and both are residents of San Jose.

Dorothy Williams and Joe Johnson of Sonoma play the part of the young army newbreds who launch the play on its merry way.

Important supporting roles are played by Clark Kirkpatrick, formerly of the University of Oregon, Shirley Mandel, John Calderwood, Barbara Vaccaro, Roxana Hildreth and Gordon Stewart.

The zany characters in "Over Twenty-One" rush in and out of a Florida motel located just across the road from an Officer Candidate school.

Los Gatos Set For Big Week-end

With upping of purse money in the Los Gatos Rodeo and Horse Show to be held here May 30-31, cash prizes will total nearly $6000, it was revealed here today. Last minute changes brought purses to nearly $1500, which will be added to fee money that will become pocketbook cash to winning riders.

Total increases in the amount of $480 came in the single steer roping, bareback bronco riding, team roping and steer decorating events, each of which went from a purse of $100 to $200 each, while the steer riding event went from a previous $80 to $160. Added to entry fees this will bring total prizes to nearly $6000.

Those desiring to enter the rodeo were urged by Stanley Hopper, business manager, to get their application in to him at 114 N. Santa Cruz avenue before 6 p.m. Thursday, May 29.

With the installation of a steer-proof fence between the arena and the track, events in both divisions can be run simultaneously.
